COLORADO FOSTER YOUTH IN TRANSITION PROGRAM

An opportunity to make important decisions about YOUR life and receive the services and support YOU need.

You have choices and rights if you qualify for the program and decide to participate...

You decide if you want to participate in the program, and when you want to stop.

You choose services and supports based on what you want and need. You can change your mind if they're not the right fit.

You'll get an attorney to represent what you want to happen. Your attorney is your advocate.

You keep your adult rights, like deciding medical care, signing contracts, and keeping accounts with banks.

You choose housing options approved by the county department or the court. This includes independent living, host homes, or foster homes.

Your parents are not parties in your FYTP case, which means they are not automatically involved.

HOW DO I QUALIFY FOR THE FYTP?
